Argyle House is an exceptional office space in the heart of Scotland's capital city.

Dating back to the 1960s and after remaining largely vacant for several years Argyle House has recently undergone a substantial refurbishment and transformation programme.

Nestling in the shadows of Edinburgh Castle in the heart of Edinburgh city centre and just a short walk from the world-famous Princes Street, Argyle House now delivers 9,147sq ft of stripped back contemporary and modern office design.

“ The quality of the Gradus carpets was complemented with the choice of colours, which was also a great boon to the overall look of the flooring element of the refurbishment ”

Ben Mack, Partner at Hollis.

The overall management for the transformation of Argyle House would be the responsibility of Edinburgh-based real estate consultants Hollis who provided a range of consultancy services on the project as Project Manager, Principal Designer, M&E Consultant and Cost Consultant.

Since 1991 Hollis have shaped their own path to be at the forefront of international real estate consulting.

When specifying new flooring for the refurbishment programme, Hollis chose 825m² of Latour² carpet tiles. Designed from a floor plan service supplied by Gradus based on the client's inspiration, the project would include Gradus Latour² in Howden and Alston colours.

Alston was installed to create a walkway through the centre of the office and aid wayfinding between the columns alongside Howden, which was used throughout the main office space to complement Alston and create an interesting dynamic floor scheme. Additionally, Latour², Glenavon was also used around the perimeter of the office space to create a vibrant design feature.

Ben Mack, Partner at Hollis commented, "Our client wanted to re-purpose an unused area of Argyle House that was in a 'shell' condition.

"Historically we have always had extremely positive experiences with Gradus, and the chosen solution met the budget requirements for the refurbishment.

"With the addition of the Gradus Design Service that would help us to envision the project, Gradus was the natural choice for this iconic project."

He went to add, "The quality of the Gradus carpets was complemented with the choice of colours, which was also a great boon to the overall look of the flooring element of the refurbishment."

Latour² is a solution-dyed nylon carpet tile range that comprises of Plains and Stripes, which can be used alone or can work together, to create interesting and unique floor schemes.

This striking collection is suitable for a wide range of hard-working environments including commercial office and education.
